LUCKERT, J.: Derick A. Wilson, like the defendant in State v. Ryce, 306 Kan. ____, __ P.3d __ (No. 111,698, this day decided) (Ryce II), challenges the constitutionality of K.S.A. 2016 Supp. 8-1025. In State v. Ryce, 303 Kan. 899, 368 P.3d 342 (2016) (Ryce I), we held that 8-1025 is facially unconstitutional. In this case, based on our analysis in Ryce I, we affirmed the district court's decision to dismiss the charge against Wilson that alleged a violation of 8-1025. See State v. Wilson, 303 Kan. 973, 368 P.3d 1086 (2016) (Wilson I).

After we issued our decision in Ryce I and Wilson I, the State timely filed a motion seeking to stay the mandate until the United States Supreme Court issued a decision in three consolidated cases addressing a similar issue regarding Minnesota and North Dakota statutes that made it a crime to refuse blood alcohol content testing. We granted that motion and, once the United States Supreme Court issued its decision in Birchfield v. North Dakota, 579 U.S. ___, 136 S. Ct. 2160, 195 L. Ed. 2d 560 (2016), allowed the parties to submit additional briefs.

After considering those additional briefs and the effect of Birchfield on Ryce I and Wilson I, we once again in Ryce II determine that K.S.A. 2016 Supp. 8-1025 is facially unconstitutional. While Birchfield requires some modification of our analysis, nothing in the United States Supreme Court's decision alters the ultimate basis for Ryce I: the state law grounds of statutory interpretation of 8-1025 and the statute on which it depends, K.S.A. 2016 Supp. 8-1001.

For the reasons more fully set forth in Ryce I and Ryce II, we accordingly affirm the district court's decision to dismiss the charge against Wilson that alleged a violation of K.S.A. 2016 Supp. 8-1025.

Affirmed.
